GRANTS:

- Co-Principal, The Kettering Symposium on Public Accountability (with H. George Frederickson), May 22-24, 2008, Dayton OH.
- Co-Investigator, Towards Richer Decision-Making: a joint research project between Queens University Belfast and Trinity College Dublin under Strand I of the Republic of Ireland Higher Education Authority North South Research Programme 2003-2005. Involves a systematic comparative evaluation of burgeoning ad hoc experiments in “inclusive decision-making” on both sides of the Irish border. The core objective is to evaluate the performance of real world experiments of inclusive deliberation and decision-making, facilitating the development of practical policies for involving citizens in a richer way in the processes of public decision-making.
- Co-Principal Investigator, Regulatory Regime Change In World Financial Markets: The Case Of Sarbanes-Oxley: project submitted by Queens University Belfast Institute of Governance for funding under the Economic and Social Research Council (UK) World Financial Markets Programme (2005-2008). Examination of the impact of US financial markets regulation on regulatory regimes of selected nations.
